

Language Identification Organizer

Listen closely and check off each sentence or partial sentence as you hear it.

- Too much money chasing too few things.
- when companies start selling lots of stuff, and raising their prices
- all that newly created money is not in the pockets of ordinary people who could go out and spend it
- people who do have jobs can't just walk into the boss's office and demand a raise.
- we've got a lot of qualified applicants, you know, who want to take your job
- Inflation today is low partly because people aren't that worried about inflation.
- But when people are really worried about inflation, they start acting differently.
- Today, on the other hand, people are not rushing out to buy stuff.
- I would have just slapped it on a credit card.