

Language Identification Organizer

Listen closely and check off each sentence or partial sentence as you hear it.

- Long enough that a 14-year-old girl in Florida struggles to remember what life was like before there were foreclosures everywhere
- Willow loves animals, as any self-respecting 14-year-old girl seems to
- The story of how Willow came to own her own house is a parable of American real estate
- Her mom became a real estate agent
- Willow has about a dozen completely empty driveways to choose from
- After the housing collapse, her mom, Shannon, started working in foreclosures
- Just a lot of it was like tropical, like Tommy Bahama-looking stuff
- The investor did want to let her have the stuff, gladly
- The question sat around for a while, until Willow's mom, Shannon Moore, saw a house on auction for $12,000