

Language Identification Organizer

Listen closely and check off each sentence or partial sentence as you hear it.

- Today, it's one in three - everyone from doctors to interior designers and manicurists, in some states.
- She even put an ad on a local website.
- It said, it's illegal in the state of Utah to do any kind of extensions without a cosmetology license.
- There's this patchwork quilt of state licensing laws that covers hundreds of different professions
- It's also a way to make your competition go away.
- In other words, these professionals want more government regulation.
- you do wonderful things for your appearance and for your face and for your skin, but also could harm you.
- I'm not averse to licensing some professions. I just think that we've done it so horribly and so scattershot, in terms of who gets licensed and what they have to do to become licensed, that it's become kind of a monster.
- There are 13 million unemployed Americans right now.
- A legislator in Utah had introduced a bill to allow African-style hair braiding without a license.